

Rabbi Stuart Dauermann,
Senior Scholar, Messianic Jewish Theological Institute

In 2008, I spoke at the U.S. Center for World Mission on the post-supersessionist missiological paradigm my friends and I favor. This was new thinking, and in some ways, subversive of common presuppositions. Ralph Winter attended. I was struck with how riveted was his attention, and that a man of his stature would come to hear someone he had perhaps never heard of before.

Like him I am an iconoclast, and I deeply appreciated his attention to and consideration of my views. I have always admired people with a first class mind, and Dr Winter was certainly at the forefront of those I have known.

For creativity, brilliance, and faith-filled boldness, he had and has few if any peers.

Rabbi Stuart Dauermann,
Senior Scholar, Messianic Jewish Theological Institute

Published in the July 2009 issue of the multi-lingual online journal
www.GlobalMissiology.org